

THE MONIST CALL FOR PAPERS
&
Topics for Recent and Forthcoming Issues

Papers may now be submitted to the Editor of THE MONIST for publication in the following special issues, each of which is devoted to a single general topic specified by the Editorial Board. No paper can be considered which has been published elsewhere.

Publication Date	Volume	General Topic	Deadline for Papers
July 2011	94:3	Morality and Climate Change	July 2010
Oct. 2011	94:4	Cosmopolitanism: For and Against	Oct. 2010
Jan. 2012	95:1	Dilemmas of Multiculturalism	Jan. 2011
Apr. 2012	95:2	Experimental Philosophy	Apr. 2011
July 2012	95:3	Neuroethics	July 2011
Oct. 2012	95:4	Music	Oct. 2011
Jan. 2013	96:1	Constitution and Composition	Jan. 2012
Apr. 2013	96:2	Formal and Intentional Semantics	Apr. 2012
July 2013	96:3	Naturalizing Religious Belief	July 2012
Oct. 2013	96:4	Mental Fictionalism	Oct. 2012
Jan. 2014	97:1	The Philosophy of Robert Musil	Jan. 2013
Apr. 2014	97:2	Evaluating Philosophy	Apr. 2013
July 2014	97:3	Documentality	July 2013
Oct. 2014	97:4	Models and Simulations	Oct. 2013
Jan. 2015	98:1	Metaontology	Jan. 2014
Apr. 2015	98:2	The History of Women's Ideas	Apr. 2014

For additional forthcoming topics, please see:

themonist.org/calls-for-papers

Instructions:

Scholars in philosophy or related disciplines who wish to submit papers for any of the above special issues of THE MONIST should communicate well in advance with the Editor and ask for Special Instructions defining the scope of the general topics in which they are interested. Papers may be from 4,000 to 8,000 words in length—or about 10 to 20 double-spaced typewritten pages, including notes.

Correspondence concerning manuscripts should be addressed to

Professor Barry Smith
Department of Philosophy
University at Buffalo
State University of New York
135 Park Hall
Buffalo, NY 14260–4150 USA
phismith@buffalo.edu
Web site address: themonist.org

ISSN: 0026–9662 (print)
ISSN: 2153-3601 (online)